Americans Gain 14 Miles in New Tunisian Drive

Capture Mateur, Strategic Communications Center

Axis Forces Reported Falling Back over a Wide Area

By EDWARD KENNEDY
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 3 (AP)—American soldiers smashing back fiercely-resisting crack German troops in a fourteen-mile plunge, today occupied Mateur, one of the most important Axis strongholds in Northern Tunisia, and thus scored their greatest land victory in Africa.

French troops and other American forces to the north meanwhile stabbed to within fifteen miles of Bizerte.

The capture of Mateur, strategic enemy communications and supply center, brought the U. S. troops to the edge of the fan-like Tunisian plain with its slightly-rolling, flower-studded hills in which Allied formations can operate.

Enemy in Retreat
At last reports, the bulk of enemy forces in the north still were retreating, but it was not known how far beyond Mateur they had gone, nor exactly where they might attempt a new stand.

Seizure of the town definitely threatens both Bizerte and Tunis. In the extreme north before Bizerte the Axis still holds hills for defense, and the naval base is further protected by the twin lakes of Bizerte and Garaet Achkel.

(The Algiers radio said the United States troops were continuing to advance beyond Mateur, with Allied fighter and bomber planes pounding at the retreating Axis forces.)

The crash through the craggy hills to Mateur in two weeks of the most bitter fighting, marked by heavy losses on both sides, was mainly a feat of infantry supported by long-range American 155-millimeter artillery that had shelled the town for five days.

The American and French advances give the Allies control of all (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Baltimore Elects Officials Today

Jackson and McKeldin Both Confident in May-oralty Race

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Baltimore voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect city officials to serve for the next four years, and indications tonight were the turnout will be the lightest in decades.

Mayor Howard W. Jackson, Democrat, is running for his fifth term as mayor. He is opposed by Republican Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, attorney and unsuccessful candidate for governor last November.

Both Jackson and McKeldin forces predicted victory for their respective sides by substantial majorities.

Also to be decided are the races for comptroller, president of the city council and the eighteen seats on the council.

Thomas E. Conlon, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, is the Democratic candidate for city council presidency. Former Police Court Magistrate S. Robert Levinson is his Republican opponent.

Democrat Howard E. Crook and Republican Howard C. Beck, Jr., are candidates for comptroller. Beck is city auditor and Crook is the head of a business firm.

Giraud Asks De Gaulle To Meet Him for Conference after May 5

ALGIERS, May 3 (AP)—Gen. Henri Giraud has asked Gen. Charles De Gaulle of the Fighting French to meet him in North Africa as soon after May 5 as convenient to conclude an agreement between their respective French elements, it was announced tonight.

A statement issued by Giraud's headquarters today through Allied headquarters in North Africa said: "General Giraud delivered to Gen. (Georges) Catroux on April 27 his reply to the note of the National committee dated April 15.

Pay-as-You-Go Tax Vote Due in The House Today

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY
WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The finish battle on pay-as-you-go taxation opened today in the House, with Republicans again fighting for the modified Ruml plan to skip a complete income tax year and Democratic leaders intent upon killing the proposal "so dead that it will never again be resurrected."

In the storm of oratory, the House cleared the way for a vote tomorrow that may send to the Senate a bill wiping out at least half, if not all, of the $10,000,000,000 tax assessed against 1942 individual incomes.

Democrats Offer Plan
The Democrats were aligned behind a pay-as-you-go bill that would abate about 50 per cent of 1942 taxes.

Opening the debate today, Rep. Doughton (D-NC), 79-year-old chairman of the ways and means committee, shouted that the Ruml plan was "an iniquitous tax policy."

Republicans replied that the Democratic-supported bill was "a seventh heaven for the loan sharks." Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) charged that the bill amounted to a capital levy, because of its "doubling-up" of taxes, and he said "heretofore the only people who have stood for capital levies are the Communists, the Nazis and the Fascists."

The bill would apply the lower income; the taxpayer then would pay off this obligation over the next three years or sooner if he desired while at the same time paying his current taxes.

Carlson Praises Plan
Rep. Carlson (R-Kas), author of the bill embracing the Republican-supported modified Ruml plan, told the House the skip-a-tax-year proposal was "the only sound and simple method" of placing America's 44,000,000 income taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis, he said, as follows:

1. It accomplishes the objective of placing taxpayers on a current, pay-as-you-go basis immediately and not at some distant time.

2. It involves no doubling up in payments.

3. It treats all taxpayers equitably, and is the only plan which abates the 1942 tax assessment on the same progressive principle by which it was imposed.

4. It is the only plan which meets every problem squarely, openly, fairly and honestly.

Gaulle dated April 27 he proposed to meet him in a North African city as soon after May 5 as would be possible for the latter and then, the agreement concluded, that they proceed together to Algiers.

"Fighting French sources in London said yesterday that De Gaulle had received a suggestion from Giraud that they meet at what the Fighting French called a 'lonely place' outside Algiers. Giraud's statement made public today said the invitation was to meet 'in a North African city,' and that they would go to Algiers after an agreement was reached.

"Circles close to De Gaulle said yesterday that they doubted he would agree to meet Giraud outside Algiers.

Russian Troops Kill 900 Nazis In Kuban Sector

Bring Total of Enemy Dead in the Last Week to 8,000

Renewal of Fighting on the Leningrad Front Reported

LONDON, Tuesday, May 4 (AP)—Russian troops have killed 900 more Germans in violent fighting in the Kuban sector of the Caucasus, the Soviets announced early today, bringing the toll of enemy dead within the last week in that area to nearly 8,000.

Action flared all along the vast front from the Caucasus north to Leningrad, with a total of 1,280 Nazi troops killed Monday in land attacks and by artillery actions, said the midnight communiqué as recorded by the Soviet monitor.

Tremendous dog fights swirled in the air over the Caucasian battlefields, the Moscow radio reported, with fifty-four German planes shot down in combats "west of Krasnodar" Sunday and Monday against a loss of twenty-one Russian planes.

These aerial battles apparently accompanied the German assaults to broaden their bridgehead around Novorossisk, attacks which the Russians reported yesterday had been beaten back after six days of fighting in which 7,000 German troops perished.

Kill 900 More Germans
Red army units conducting "active military operations" Monday in this same area killed 900 more Germans, burned or disabled four Nazi tanks, destroyed nine blockhouses and seven dugouts, and silenced two artillery and five mortar batteries, said the midnight war bulletin.

In the Sevsk sector, northwest of Kursk, Russian scouts in a surprise raid swarmed into German trenches, killing the defenders, and capturing arms before returning to their positions. Snipers in this sector killed eighty Germans during the day.

On the Western front before Smolensk Russian artillery fired wiped out more than a company of German soldiers, destroyed eight machineguns and silenced four artillery batteries, the communiqué reported.

Fighting Near Leningrad
On the Leningrad front snipers "exterminated over 100 Hitlerites," while artillery and mortar fire destroyed eight blockhouses and seven dugouts, silenced two artillery batteries, and blew up an ammunition dump.

Guerrillas in the Chernigov area repulsed an attack launched by a German punitive detachment. "The Hitlerites were driving in front of them peaceful citizens—women and children," the communiqué said.

"The guerrillas outflanked the enemy and opened up intense rifle and machinegun fire. Unable to withstand the fire, the Germans retreated. Fifty-seven dead remained on the battlefield."

The communiqué also declared that Russian planes in various sectors on Sunday destroyed or damaged at least twenty German trucks, blew up two ammunition dumps, destroyed an enemy freight train, and sank a patrol ship.

Youth Confesses Murder of Child

James Franklin Admits Killing of Three-Year-Old Child

ST. LOUIS, May 3 (AP)—Chief of Detectives Fred Egenreither said tonight James Franklin, 21, had confessed the murder of 3-year-old Mary Jane Tankersley a few hours after the girl's slashed and semineude body was found in a west side pedestrian underpass.

The youth, who lives in the same block as the Tankersley family, led police to the underground passage-way and made an oral confession to stabbing and criminally assaulting the girl, Egenreither said.

The underpass, on the edge of wooded Forest Park, is several miles from the girl's home. Her body was discovered by a park watchman on his way to work. The girl's torn clothing was piled at her head and a part of her underclothing was wadded in her mouth.

Detective Capt. Martin Cliffe, who arrested Franklin, said the youth recently had been involved in a sex offense in the same tunnel.

An incomplete autopsy by Dr. J. J. Connor, coroner's physician, disclosed the criminal attack and two small stab wounds in the chest and a cut on the throat. Connor said they were made apparently by a penknife.

Triumph Officials Accused of Fraud In War Contracts

Checks for $85,000 Turned Over to Two Men, Witness Says

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Government witnesses testified in federal court today that two former officials of Triumph Explosives, Inc., obtained about $85,000 of the munitions firm's funds by making nine checks payable to a secretary, who told the court she cashed them and turned them over to the two men.

The two former Triumph executives—Joseph Ben Decker and Gustav H. Kann—went on trial before Judge William C. Coleman and a jury on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The government alleged five of the nine checks were sent through the mails to a Pittsburgh, Pa., bank, and it was on the alleged mailings that the mail fraud charges were based.

Charge Violation of Contract
The indictment, in addition to charging that the Elktion, Md., company and stockholders were defrauded, also alleged the defendants violated a loan contract agreement with a Pittsburgh bank by increasing the compensation of triumph officials without the bank's approval.

The trial is the first of a scheduled series of prosecutions growing out of an alleged $1,400,000 contract fraud at the munitions plant. In addition to Kann, former president of the firm, and Decker, former vice president, other officials of Triumph, government inspectors and brokers have been indicted by the federal grand jury on one or more charges ranging from fraud and conspiracy to defraud to bribery.

Woman Cashed Checks
Miss Elizabeth Jackson, Decker's former secretary, told the court she cashed the checks and turned $85,000 over to Kann or Decker. She testified she was not told why the checks were made payable to her.

Willard Vernon, former comptroller at the Elktion plant, testified that the records of the company showed that the $85,000 was paid to Miss Jackson, although later the amounts in the nine checks were listed in commission accounts.

Frank W. Forrestell, attorney for the company, told the court that a check in an amount identical to that of a check taken to bank by (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

WEST VIRGINIA MINERS SLOW IN RETURNING TO THEIR JOBS

Only Small Percentage Believed To Have Worked Yesterday, Leaders Assert

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 3 (AP)—Under the protecting folds of the American flag, the first handful of West Virginia's bituminous coal miners went back to the pits today with all indications that tipples would be humming at near-normal capacity within another twenty-four hours.

Whistles blew at all of the states 625 commercial and captive operations in obedience to a government directive, but observers declared that no more than ten per cent of the United Mine Workers responded.

The remaining thousands chose to wait until tomorrow, the date UMW chieftain John L. Lewis designated for the start of a fifteen-day truce which broke the crisis brought on by a union ultimatum that miners would not trespass on company property without a contract.

Whether any more miners would have turned out today—or even tomorrow—had the stalemate not been broken may never be known.

Conflicting Claims
There were conflicting claims about the number of West Virginians who returned to the mines that now have become government property, but based upon a canvass of individual fields and districts—ten per cent appeared a safe estimate.

This would include maintenance crews who ordinarily are on duty under union dispensation even when the mines are struck, pumpers, timbermen, cutters and others making preparations for actual loading operations to start today.

Vice President William Blizard of UMW district seventeen said flatly at Charleston that none except maintenance crews among his district's 50,000 miners in the Kanawha, Williamson and Logan fields were back at work ahead of the date stipulated by their union leader.

George J. Titler, president of district 29, also denied at Beckley that there was any work in the Pocahontas-Tug River, Winding Gulf, New River and Greenbrier fields.

Titler said, however, that permission had been given for machine runners and coal cutters to enter the mines on the "owl's shift" last night to prepare coal for loaders today. He emphasized that there would be no full return to the pits in his district until this morning.

Mines Government Property
Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes in whose hands President Roosevelt refused full power when the government took over, had designated the mines as government property and instructed operations to be ready for work yesterday—with military protection if needed.

The big United States Coal and Coke Company which operates seven captive mines of the U. S. Steel Company near Gary in McDowell county, said about twenty-five per cent of its personnel returned to work today.

Some other large mines in McDowell county, which sends about 2,500,000 tons of coal a month to market, reported such a negligible response to their work notices that no operation was attempted.

In the northern fields, which yesterday breathed defiance to government operation at a union rally near Morgantown, estimates of the response ranged in the neighborhood of ten per cent.

Waring Opposes Truce with Miners; Had Enough of Armistices in '18

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3 (AP)—Commander Roane Waring, of the American Legion, commenting on John L. Lewis' temporary agreement in the coal mine work stoppage, declared today such a move was a "truce—and we got our bellyful of armistices in 1918."

Waring told a press conference, before the start of a week-long session of forty national legion commissions and committees, that "The American people are not interested in a truce. They are only interested in the continued operation of those mines by the owners of them, if possible; or, if not possible, by the government."

"A truce is only a postponement of the real decision—an armistice in other words. We had an armistice in 1918 and failed to decide a definite issue with the Germans—and the American people don't want any more armistices on vital issues. And we got our bellyful of armistices in 1918."

Americans Renew Raids on Kiska, Blast Holes in Island Runways

By HAMILTON W. FARON
WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Renewed, large-scale aerial drive against the Japanese air and submarine base on Kiska island in the Aleutians was reported today by the navy, which said bombers struck at enemy installations thirteen times on Saturday.

Fires were started, holes were torn in the runway which the Japanese have laboriously carved out on the mountainous island and heavy smoke was seen rising from bombed installations on many parts of Kiska.

Other bombs hit at North Head—the northern side of Kiska Harbor—and a heavy explosion resulted. At the same time, other heavy bombers attacked Attu, secondary Japanese base in the North Pacific chain.

Hits were scored on "enemy target areas" there, the navy reported, but exact results were not disclosed.

The areas hit on Attu, 200 miles from the main Japanese position at Kiska, were described merely as in the Holt Bay and Chichagof harbor vicinity. Those sections of the island were bombarded by United States warships a week ago.

Union President Declares Miners Will Not Retreat

Issues Defiant Statement Saying Next Move Is Up to Ickes

Declares Men Are No Longer Bound by No Strike Pledge

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—While the nation's mines began slowly to resume production tonight under the fifteen-day truce, John L. Lewis made it clear that the armistice meant no retreat from the miners' original demands and that the next step was up to Secretary of the Interior Ickes, boss of the government-controlled coal fields.

The United Mine Workers leader, in a statement issued after a meeting of the union's national policy committee in New York, also reiterated the stand of the miners that they "were no longer bound by the no-strike pledge," and charged that the War Labor Board by adopting the "Little Steel" wage formula had "breached the understanding" labor had entered with the public, employers and the administration regarding strikes in wartime.

Lewis Scores Board
Apparently in answer to President Roosevelt's statement of last night that the United Mine Workers had entered the no-strike agreement, Lewis asserted that "the War Labor Board must accept the full responsibility for distress in the ranks of labor created by their controversion of the understanding and commitments arrived at in the December, 1941 conference."

Lewis, who announced the coal mine truce last night twenty-two minutes before President Roosevelt called upon the 480,000 miners to go back to work, said the coal diggers would stand pat on their original demands for $2-a-day increases, underground travel pay and unionization of minor bosses, and he tossed the ball to Secretary Ickes with the remark he was now "awaiting the initiative from Mr. Ickes." There was no comment immediately from Ickes.

Flag Over Coal Fields
With coal fields everywhere flying the American flag, they drew back hundreds of the 480,000 miners idle over the weekend in the fifteen-day shutdown. Predictions were general that full scale production would resume tomorrow—the re-starting day set by John L. Lewis in his armistice declaration.

As the day advanced in mines taken over by the government Saturday, it was not clear whether the full vanguard of returning workers was responding specifically to the call of the president or the call of Lewis.

The president, in urging the miners to return lest they obstruct the nation's war effort, had said he was sure that "like all good Americans" they would "march shoulder to shoulder with their armed forces to victory."

Order from Lewis

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Tuesday, May 4 (AP)—Three Allied pilots are missing as result of the Japanese attack on Darwin Sunday, the high command reported today.

Whether any other pilots were lost was not disclosed. The Allied losses were due principally to extreme weather conditions rather than to Japanese activity, a spokesman said.

Kirk Nominated Surgeon General Of the U. S. Army

Maryland Officer Will Succeed General James C. Magee

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, a native of Rising Sun, Md., was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be surgeon general of the army, succeeding Major General James C. Magee.

Kirk is now commanding general of the Percy Jones Hospital at Battle Creek, Mich., and formerly was chief of surgical service at the army medical center, Walter Reed Hospital, Washington.

He entered the medical corps of the regular army in 1913 as a first lieutenant, three years after he received his medical degree from the University of Maryland.

Kirk, now 55, served two tours of duty in the Philippines, in 1928-30 and 1934-36. Returning to the United States in July, 1936, he became chief of the surgical service at Letterman Hospital in San Francisco, and in 1941 transferred to Walter Reed.

He went to Battle Creek last July.

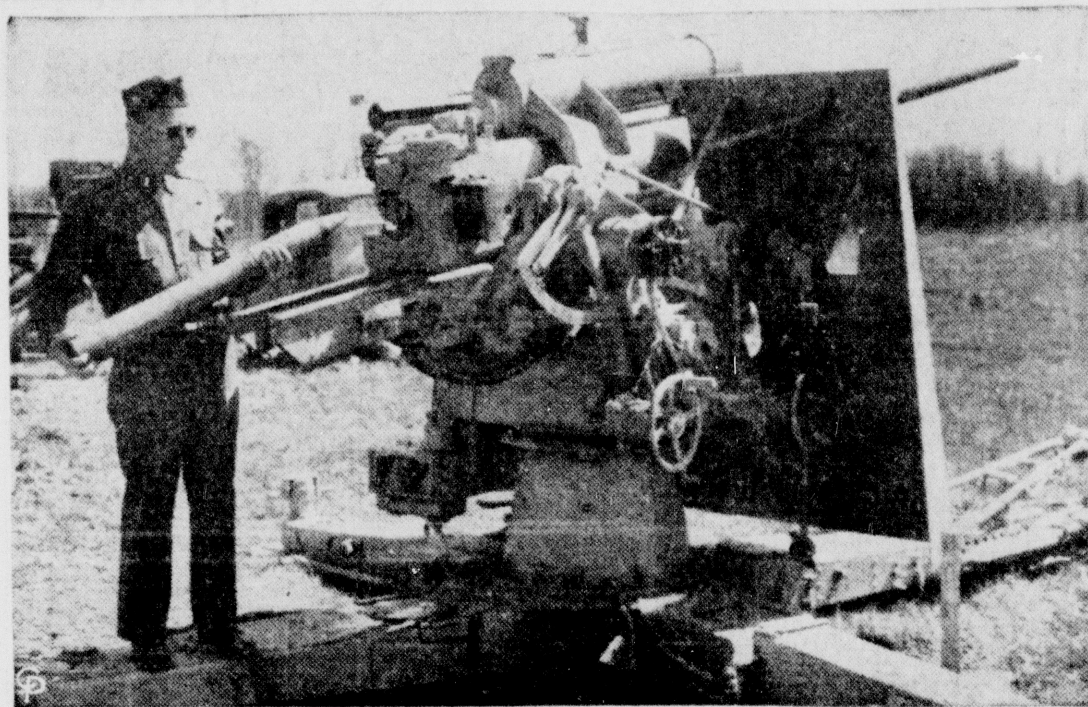

Magee, 60, will complete his four-year term as surgeon general of the army in June.

Shipyards Establish Another New Record

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—American merchant shipyards established another new record for ship production in April by delivering 157 ships totaling 1,606,600 deadweight tons.

This, announced today by the Test Famed Nazi 88-MM. Gun At Aberdeen

BY TESTING CAPTURED ENEMY WEAPONS, U. S. Army ordnance officers learn much that is helpful in combatting the effect of these guns on the battlefield. Lieut. E. H. Davis, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is trying out a German 88-mm. gun that was taken in the fighting in North Africa. It was this anti-aircraft and anti-tank weapon that helped the Nazis greatly in the early stages of the African fighting.

Maritime Commission, brought 1943 production to 536 ships aggregating 5,370,200 deadweight tons, the four-month total exceeding the total tonnage constructed during the first nine months of 1942.

April construction was at an annual rate exceeding 19,000,000 tons, the approximate goal for the year.

A west coast yard, California Shipbuilding Corporation of Wilmington, Calif., broke all previous records for a single yard by delivering nineteen Liberty ships.

The Oregon shipbuilding corporation of Portland, Ore., took second place with seventeen Liberty ships, and the Bethlehem-Fairfield shipyard at Baltimore delivered sixteen Liberty ships.

Maryland Traffic Shows Increase

BALTIMORE, May 2 (AP)—Photographic records at seventeen strategic points along state highways showed Maryland traffic had increased steadily since the first spring weather, the State Roads Commission reported today.

One increase in the number of motorists followed the Office of Price Administration's abandonment of the honor system of limiting pleasure driving, but the biggest factor in the increase, the commission said, was the improving weather.

George Lewis, traffic manager for the commission, said the total count of the seventeen recorders from Sunday, February 28, to Sunday, March 28, was 153,871.

Summer Cottages Under Rent Control

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Summer cottages rented any time between Nov. 1, 1942 and March 31, 1943 in the Baltimore defense-rental area are subject to rent control regulations. Lucien E. D. Gaudreau, Maryland Office of Price Administration rent director, announced today.

He said the exception to the regulation would be cottages that were "purely and exclusively seasonal in character." They will be free from rent limits from June 1 to Sept. 30.

"The people who have lived all this winter in some summer places in this area look upon the cottages as their homes," Gaudreau explained, adding "they have a right to expect protection against eviction which rent control gives them. It would be unfair to penalize them in favor of vacationists who come here for only part of a year."

Owners who did not rent their cottages during winter months may charge any amount of rent, Gaudreau said.

Mrs. Randall Indicted On Murder Charge

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 3 (AP)—The Anne Arundel county grand jury handed down an indictment today against Mrs. Helen Aileen Randle, charging her with the murder of Allen Willey.

Mrs. Randle has been held in the Anne Arundel county jail since the night of January 31, at which time she was charged with the killing of the 17-year-old Annapolis High School student, and the wounding of her husband, Ulmo S. Randle, at the Randle's Bay Ridge residence.

Absent from the list of witnesses on the written indictment was Randle's name.

State's witnesses on the list included Mrs. Leonard R. Stinchcomb, Jr., of those present at the Randle home, scene of the shooting; Mr. and Mrs. Addison H. Willey, the boy's parents; and Sgt. Brooke Meade of the Anne Arundel county police force.

No date was set for the trial, according to court officials.

The indictment was filed officially just ten days after the grand jury began consideration of the case.

Housing Program Planned in Baltimore

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—To meet the needs of war workers expected to arrive in the Baltimore, Md., area in the closing months of this year, a program to provide 2,000 accommodations was approved today by the National Housing Agency.

The program calls for 1,800 privately-financed new family units and 200 additional family accommodations through privately-financed conversion of existing structures.

Of the new units, 950 are to be located in the Brooklyn-Curtis Bay sub-area, and the remaining 850 are to be built in the Dundalk-Sparrows Point-Southeast Baltimore sub-area. More than half of the latter units are to be for negro occupancy.

Virginia Miners Return to Pits

Normal Daytime Complements Expected To Start Work Today

NORTON, Va., May 3 (AP)—Virginia's 18,000 union miners headed back to work tonight with members of the usual night shift directed by an official of the United Mine Workers to report back to the struck diggings to be followed Tuesday by the normal daytime complement of men.

A bare trickle of workers reported Monday in response to pleas from President Roosevelt and Governor Parden for an immediate resumption of work but the great majority stayed away from the pits awaiting a directive from UMW officials. Union Chief John L. Lewis's 15-day truce contemplated a return to work on Tuesday and virtually all UMW members in Virginia appeared to be following the union line in respect to the time they resumed operations.

Several thousand non-UMW miners in Dickenson county reported for work as usual yesterday but the turnout in the union fields was put at about one per cent of the total among Wise county's 6,000 miners and Chief State Mine Inspector C. P. Kelly said at Big Stone Gap that the figures seemed about right for all of district 28.

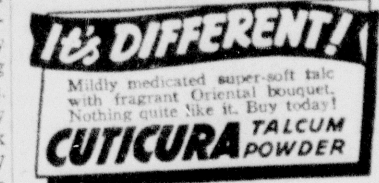

Kelly said that with the exception of some men in the coke yards there were not enough coal miners reporting to justify operations. William F. Minton, secretary-treasurer of the union district, said however that directives were being sent to the locals to resume last night and come in on the day shift today.

Indications that Washington expects settlement of the emergency during the period of truce was seen in coal boss Ickes' advice to Governor Parden to hold up the appointment of some one in Virginia to represent him and the federal government in the coal crisis. Ickes previously had telegraphed a request to the governor to make the appointment.

Use hot water for health . . .

but use GAS wisely!

Here's how you can help the war effort and your own pocketbook!

In this war emergency it is more important to maintain individual health. One way is to use enough hot water for bathing, keeping the children clean, hair washing, household cleaning, dishwashing and other home uses. For hot water helps you keep your home clear of germs—and that means less danger of infection—consequently a better chance to maintain normal family health.

But because in this area Natural Gas has become a vital war material it is because our war industries, in their stepped-up production schedules, are using more and more Gas it is up to us all not to waste Gas.

This doesn't mean that you have to get along without the hot water you need—only that you use it wisely and efficiently. The Gas you save—and that your neighbors save—can be used to complete a badly-needed tank, the armorplate for a ship, the propeller for a plane.

Natural Gas is vital to war industries.

Use it wisely!

The Critical Coal Strike Situation

BY FAR the most significant statement that came over the air and the press wires Sunday night about the serious coal mine strike was not the admirable appeal by the president that the men should return to work, and that the mines must and will be operated. In that statement he exhibited a firmness which he should have demonstrated two years or more ago. The most important statement came from the headquarters of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that a fifteen-day truce had been agreed upon, with the accompanying order by him that the miners should return to work today and remain at work during that period. This operation of the mines for the present is insured and that is the all-important thing.

It was rather unfortunate that the president didn't call attention to this truce in his radio address, since the agreement for it came prior to his talk, because it would have served to emphasize his appeal to the miners that they should return to work.

President Roosevelt's appeal came under a big handicap, or, rather, a series of handicaps. One was the handicap of an unfortunate and selfishly-based labor appeasement policy too long followed by the Washington administration. Another handicap was the attempt to upset a well-demonstrated theory that you can lead a horse to water but you cannot make him drink. Guarding the coal mining plants with soldiers so that those desiring to return to work therein is not a solution of the problem. The miners will not return to work without a satisfactory solution of their difficulties—or a truce—simply because they fear the reaction of their fellow union workers. Another handicap was the loss of confidence in the operations of the War Labor Board.

Nevertheless the president was right when he said that "coal will be mined no matter what any individual thinks about it," because it must be mined in order to supply a basic material needed for the continued operation of war plants in the midst of a total war which could be lost without it, or at least could be seriously impeded at added costs of lives and treasure. The mining of coal, as the president declared, is as important as the work of the armed services.

There is no use in trying to dodge the cold fact that the coal miners are the victims of the spiral of inflation. Had the president been firm in his promises to stop that spiral two years or more ago when the Little Steel formula was agreed upon, and had insisted firmly that it be put into effect generally, as it should have been, there would be an entirely different situation today. But too many loopholes were allowed for escape from that formula and since January 1, 1940, the spiraling has continued almost uninterrupted, hitting the coal miners and the lowest paid workers severely.

Because of the lack of firmness on the part of the Washington administration and the resort to appeasement, the coal miners have a case, however inopportune some may think it may have been handled, and there is no getting around that bald fact.

A letter sent the other day by an executive of several coal plants in this section to the War Labor Board said that the public had been led to believe that the present wage scale of the miners is $7 a day. "This is not at all correct," this coal operator declared. "The day men, who are non-producers, drivers, tippie men, blacksmiths, etc., do receive $7 a day, $1 an hour for a thirty-five hour week. These men are well paid; they are paid as high a wage as is paid by other industry."

"On the other hand, the miner produces, he has a job in hand to mine the coal, he is a hard worker, yet he does not receive $7 per day, although it is generally believed that he does. The average coal miner produces six tons of coal per work day. He receives approximately ninety-two cents per net ton for mining this coal. This does not give him $7 a day. . . . In the highly mechanized mines he is paid less than ninety-two cents. . . . The whole present setup is wrong. . . . He should be paid not less than $1.17 per net ton for every ton of coal he produces. . . ."

The president's attempt to lay the blame for the present situation was not discreet. "The responsibility for the crisis that we now face," he said, "rests squarely on these national officers of the United Mine Workers, and not on the government of the United States." The government, of course, is not primarily responsible but the administration of the government largely is. The president did, however, make a strong point in directing attention to the fact that, after the attack on Pearl Harbor, the three great labor organizations — the CIO, the AF of L and the rail brotherhoods — had given him positive assurance that there would be no strikes as long as the war lasted. That is a pledge which should be kept.

The coal miners will reopen the mines today because John L. Lewis has ordered them to do so rather than that the government has taken over the plants. The truce was a clever piece of strategy on the part of John L. Lewis and his advisors, including John T. Jones, of this city. It provides opportunity for a cooling-off period in which there is possibility of reaching a satisfactory agreement. Perhaps there the idea of unionizing foremen, which should never have been attempted, can be dropped.

The truce means simply that the negotiations will be continued and that the Little Steel formula will go into the discard so far as the miners are concerned. And there we shall see another unhappy outcome of the week-kneed, ill-balanced, discriminative appeasement labor policy so long followed by the administration. It may solve a situation temporarily at a critical time, as it should be solved for the duration. It means inevitable resumption of the inflation spiral. That is the thing which must be checked, and which should have been curbed more definitely and more courageously long ago.

Weapons Are Now Custom-Built

WHEN the United States started to prepare for war, the need of haste was urgent and standardized weapons were turned out by mass production methods. Now the specialized phase has been reached. Weapons are being custom-built for the specific tasks that will confront them under the varying conditions of the many war fronts.

Tanks are an example. Some are being "winterized" for service in Russia, while others are "desertized" for the African front. This does not preclude mass production methods. Tanks roll off production lines in several factories according to standardized specifications. Then they are sent to a plant which specializes in alterations. These are called tank modification centers. There are such centers for warplanes, too.

Biggest single job in a tank modification center is radio installation. America, Britain and Russia do not use the same models. Other items which are specialized are periscopes, guns, ammunition boxes and placement of armor. Some fighters like them one way and some another.

United States industry is doing its utmost to meet these varying needs without sacrificing that quality which is making American weapons the best in the world.

Rome's suggestion that the natives be courteous to invaders is significant, but more so is the postscript to the effect that they accept any food the invaders offer.

To forget his woes, Hitler is said to be consuming champagne in heavy quantities. As Shakespears might have put it: "Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble."

That North Carolina professor who says that talking to the bones affects dice may be expected to show up in Washington without much delay.

That's the Real Realism!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I read books and often I come across words that don't fit into my daily living. Fancy words with odd meanings. I read that a certain writer is a Master of Realism.

But I read the books that the Master of Realism writes and I see that his realism is one-sided. It means a curious ability to see only the dirty, the disagreeable, the sad-eyed and miserable side of life.

If a young woman is left a widow two months before her baby comes, that's realism.

If a genius dies when he is on the verge of the Great Discovery, that's realism.

If the tablecloth is dirty and the husband is a drunkard and both the children are sick and even in these times the man can't get a job, that's realism.

And if the soldier is a coward who doesn't do his duty and causes the death of his best friend, that, too, is realism.

But if the young husband doesn't die and the baby is born and everything goes well and it's a happy marriage—that isn't realism but sugared Romance.

If the genius struggles through and makes his great discovery, that's Romance, too.

And if the table cloth is clean each day and the husband is a sober man and holds a good job, that's also Romance and of course it "can't be true."

And, finally, if the soldier is a brave lad who never heard of duty but merely of a job to be done—and does it—that, also, is Romance.

It's Realism, apparently, if it's ugly and it's Romance if it's beautiful.

At least that's the way I've figured it out from the books by the Masters of Realism. You'll never be a Realist if you mix the sweet with the sour, the good with the bad, in the proportions we usually find that in life. You're just a sort of Drip if you do that.

Once no heroine ever had a toothache or big feet. Now, in the realistic novel, no heroine can have anything BUT bad teeth and her feet MUST be big for that's the Bitter Pill about human beings—and the Realists swear they like that pill.

I don't. That Realism is a fake. The life I've seen isn't like that. It's tough and it's tender. It's mean and it's big. It's hope and it's despair. It isn't all Romance and it isn't all Hard-boiled Realism. Sometimes it's all the one and sometimes all the other, and sometimes it's a fearful-laughing mixture of the two.

Businessmen See Trade Changes Wrought by War

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Only a paltry paragraph or two heralded the news that business has changed its policy and now favors the Hull reciprocal trade program.

At least, that portion of business as represented by the National Association of Manufacturers and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, made such an announcement through representatives appearing before the House Ways and Means committee. The public appearance of the NAM was made after its board privately agreed to reverse its policy of three years ago with very little dissent of members.

The business experts did not say so, but apparently they figured world trade must be different after the war. Our manufacturing production capacity has been greatly expanded by the armaments program.

The machines now used for weapons can be changed back to peacetime products much easier than they were changed to war. Replacement of one or two parts and tools are all that will be necessary in many instances, they say, and a better machine tool industry exists to do the job.

Must Be Sold

This extra production will have to be sold either in a greatly expanded American market (more people able to have radios, bathtubs, refrigerators, etc.) or in a larger foreign market. The world will have little gold or goods with which to buy our surplus manufacturing production.

It would be very foolish of us to "sell" these extensively on credit through any of the old or newly suggested devices. Actually, all we would be doing under such arrangements is to give our products away at the expense of our people as a whole.

As long as we export more than we import, we will naturally accumulate world debts which cannot be paid, or gold which is of doubtful value. We already have too much of both.

Currency To Accumulate

If we establish the Keynes or White systems for international payment, we will merely accumulate all the new international currency, "Unitas" or "Bancor," which, apparently, is to have only the value which our government underwrites for it. In times of international bankruptcy — and post-war conditions will approximate that—the only way for us to get paid for our products is by importation of goods.

This line of reasoning has brought the business people here around to the idea that fifty percent reductions of our tariffs, as provide in the Hull program, may help our selling. The only fear of cheap foreign labor and foreign under-selling appears to have diminished.

And, inasmuch as labor has joined in approval through A F of L's Bill Green, it looks like Mr. Hull has gathered unexpected support.

Wherry Right

Nebraska's new Republican Senator Wherry was just about right when he said at Pittsburgh that Mr. Roosevelt is already nominated for the fourth term. He is nominated as far as common interpretation in Washington is concerned.

The generally accepted belief in all political camps here is that the war probably will be on at that time and renomination will be arranged as a matter of course.

Just now, the government officials like OWI's Elmer Davis are saying that the fourth term talk is "hot air" while the party wheel-horses, like Senator Guffey and Governor Neely are out making speeches presenting the fourth term notion as "natural and inevitable."

The pattern of the fourth term campaign is, therefore, little different from the last.

CIRCUIT JUDGE

PATRICK M. SCHNAUFFER, associate judge of the Sixth judicial circuit, was state's Attorney for Frederick county for four years before his election last November to the seat on the bench vacated by the retirement of Judge Arthur D. Wilford. Schnauffer, a Republican, was born in Brunswick, Md., in 1905. He practiced law in Frederick for ten years, serving several years as trial magistrate. The Sixth circuit is composed of Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Japanese Fear Air Raids by Americans, In Which Latter Have a Big Advantage

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

That air raids scare the Japs worse than anything else does is obvious. It also is understandable. Nippon is so concentrated. A few air bombs, scattered over the mikado's main island, can hardly fail to score tremendously damaging hits.

Interior Secretary Ickes has decided not to make too much of a monument out of the Jackson Hole country, even with his presidential decree. He has announced grazing can be continued and those who have homes in the region may keep them for life—under the benevolent philanthropy of the new federal landlord.

But this does not settle all the basic principles of difficulties of the federal seizure by presidential order.

The county government will lose close to $20,000 a year in taxes as a result of the president's action. Approximately 200 men have gone from that region to fight the war for their homes, only to find now that these homes are to be available only for life, by executive decree.

It now develops further that two congressional committees refused to let the government seize the area before Mr. Roosevelt chose to do it by fiat. As one citizen of the region has written:

"Jackson Hole may be a monument to Mr. Ickes, but it's only a tombstone to me"—and to everybody else who lives there.

The Bigger Battle

Maryland Avenue Reader Says It Is for the Preservation of Our Nation

Editor the Cumberland News: We Americans are not belly-aching today about what is justly due us for our labors, or finding fault with the very busy operators of industry in this country over petty or so-called important grievances.

We have a much bigger battle facing us and these things of pre-war time fade into the background as we take up the reins of sacrifice and push bravely toward Victory.

When we sacrifice in war-time we are not expecting our just dues and those who do aer not Americans. This is not a time to battle for personal rights and comforts. We are in a fight for the preservation of this nation so that our coming generations may live in peace and so that our boys might come home to unknowing that we have done the best that is in us to back up their much greater sacrifices in actual battle.

We have only a limited time to sacrifice and work and produce and we had better forget everything else and do it now or Hitler will tell us how to live and work in the future. We all know what that means. He gives us a "royal Haw-Haw" every time we bite off our nose to spite our face, knowing that these things are dangerous to our Victory.

Right now, work now, sacrifice now, so that we can enjoy the spoils later, and so that the "government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Our government will not forget us who labor for this great cause, and our government has been very generous toward labor and its struggle for better living; it will continue to be. Have faith.

Garden Bean That Defies Jack Frost Is Now a Reality

By VERN K. WILLIAMS
Central Press Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Cal. — Here is good news for Victory gardeners—a bean that thrives in cold, wet weather and even resists frost!

Beans long have been the anathema of home gardeners because they demand warm, dry weather and warm soil, shriveling at the first touch of rain or cold.

Harry L. Bateson, Long Beach horticulturist whose hobby is speeding and increasing the production of plants for home gardens so that families may derive a great part of their living from their own back yard, has achieved what he calls the "Wonder Winter" bean.

Crossing the English Windsor bean with the California bean, he has achieved a bean that grows in long pods on a straight strong stalk three to four feet high. The pods at maturity are ten to fourteen inches long, containing five or six lima or "butter" beans and taste like peas.

Shelled Like Limas

When the pods are young and succulent, they may be cooked pods and all like string beans. When they are older, the beans are shelled like lima beans. The beans are high in vitamins, proteins and iron, Bateson says.

Beans at the Bateson gardens here were planted in August, flourished through the wet, cold winter, began bearing in November and still are bearing. Bateson thinks the season will end for them in late May.

Beans at the Bateson gardens here were planted in August, flourished through the wet, cold winter, began bearing in November and still are bearing. Bateson thinks the season will end for them in late May.

By planting the new beans for winter use and Kentucky Wonder, wax beans and lima beans for summer, it is possible for a gardener to have beans fresh from his garden the year around, Bateson believes.

Bateson served in the Canadian army with the original Princess Pat contingent overseas in World War I.

War Foreseen

"At the end of that war I knew that there would be another war, worse than it, in my lifetime and that food would be the big factor," he says. "I set to work experimenting to increase yields and reducing maturity time of vegetables."

Bateson has developed sweet corn which bears sixty days from planting instead of the original 98 days. Other maturity time reductions are:

Wax beans, fifty-eight days cut to fifty days.

Green beans, sixty-four days cut to forty-five.

Kentucky Wonder beans, seventy-four days cut to sixty-one.

Lima pole beans, eighty-eight days cut to seventy-two.

Many Other Vegetables

Beets, seventy-five days cut to forty-eight.

Cabbage, 110 days cut to sixty.

Carrots, eighty-eight days cut to sixty-six.

Celery, 135 days cut to eighty-two.

Cauliflower, seventy-five days cut to sixty-three.

Cucumbers, sixty-eight days cut to forty-seven.

Lettuce, eighty-five days cut to forty-five.

Onions, 110 days cut to ninety.

Pumpkins, 120 days cut to ninety.

Radishes, thirty days cut to twenty.

Spinach, forty-three days cut to thirty.

Squash, 110 days cut to fifty-two.

Tomatoes, 100 days cut to sixty-two.

Turnips, seventy-five days cut to forty-three.

In many cases, this maturity time reduction makes it possible for a gardener to produce two crops where he produced only one before. His experiments also have increased the average yield five to eight percent.

the government-operated Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad, told the House Military Affairs committee the other day that the government has "inaugurated featherbedding" in its management of the road, "with a resultant boost in wasteful personnel."

"Featherbedding" is the expressive term used to describe the employment of unnecessary workers.

The outspoken McNear added in his testimony that throughout the nation at least a million "able-bodied, willing workers are waste-fully employed" because of this practice. He absolved individual workmen of responsibility for this situation, declaring that "they are helpless because they are dominated by able and aggressive labor racketeers whose primary interest is collecting union dues."

Mr. McNear's presentation may be a bit on the extreme side. Any person at all familiar with union policies, however, knows that the general practice is to resist the introduction of labor-saving machinery, and to keep as many men on every job as possible. Moreover, there appears to have been no material revision of this policy in war time.

Under the circumstances, it is difficult to convince an observant person that there is an actual labor shortage in this country.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Transplanting Cabbages into the Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Victory Garden beginnings are apt to assume that cabbage plants are tough and therefore give them little consideration and care. This, of course, is a mistake, for care in transplanting cabbage plants is needed. If given proper care in transplanting the plants will respond to it and will not wilt down before their roots have taken hold. When properly protected the cabbage plants are better able to withstand insect enemies and disease.

If the young plants are to be lifted from a flat for transplanting it is best to water the plants a short time before handling them so that the soil will be moist enough to cling to their roots in a ball, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Cabbage plants can be transplanted with safety even during dry weather if they are set deep in the soil, that is, with the soil coming up to the first leaf, as illustrated. Make the hole deep enough to permit the roots of the plant to be placed straight down without crowding them. Firm the soil against the length of both roots and stem to prevent the formation of air pockets. Water the plants thoroughly and protect them from the sun for a day or two by covering with flower pots, berry boxes or newspapers, as illustrated.

The plants can also be protected against the attacks of cutworms by wrapping a four-inch collar of paper around the stem of each plant when transplanting it, as illustrated. Allow the paper collar to extend about one and one-half or two inches above the soil level about the plants.

CELANESE PLANS NEW POSTWAR YARN

Chicago, May 3.—"The research laboratories of the Celanese Corp. of America are at present developing new improved types of yarns for hosiery, but unfortunately the introduction of these yarns must await the termination of the war."

In these words John P. Holmes, of the company's New York office, climaxed his address before the Hosiery Mill Representatives Club of Chicago at a luncheon meeting here.

Without adding more on that point, Mr. Holmes emphasized his opinion that if Celanese (acetate) rayon yarn is properly thrown, knitted, pre-boarded and dyed according to recommended methods, the hope should give satisfactory wear.

He noted in passing that his company had invented pre-boarding more than 10 years ago, long before it was applied to nylons, declaring:

"As a matter of fact, the Celanese Corp., both here and in Canada, has for the past 15 years manufactured and sold seamless stockings which were pre-boarded before dyeing. For the best results, Celanese hose should be pre-

Two Red Signals Cause Confusion In Blackout Test

Bunching of Signals Causes Whistles To Blow Often in Surprise Drill

A surprise test blackout for Maryland, the first of its kind marked by two "red" signals, caused considerable confusion in Cumberland last evening and gave conclusive evidence that a majority of the residents are still unfamiliar with the warning blasts of the sirens and whistles.

Signals changed so fast at the local control center and were so closely bunched that the staff of workers really had its hands full relaying them to other points throughout the county, Herman Myers, chief aid rail warden said.

More Training Needed
In previous blackouts conducted under the new signals of the Third Service Command, the "all clear" by radio followed the second "blue" signal but last night instead of the second "blue" the second "red" was flashed, indicating that enemy planes are returning. This action really had citizens and some of the air wardens confused, an indication that more training in signal detection is necessary.

Sirens are not sounded for the "all clear" but when the second "red" warning bell looses many persons switched on their lights instead of keeping them extinguished. The "yellow" signal came into the local control center at 10:12 p. m., followed by the first "blue" at 10:25, the first "red" at 10:30, the second "blue" at 10:35, the second "red" at 10:40 and the third "blue" at 10:52. The "white" or "all clear" came via radio at 11:01 p. m.

Signals Change Fast
Myers said that when a blackout comes the local control center must relay approximately fifty calls to other points on seven telephones. Signals, however, changed so fast last evening that the staff was pressed to keep up with Baltimore.

In a long distance conversation with Myers, Col. Henry A. Barrett, director of Air Raid Precautions for Maryland, admitted that the signals were bunched too closely for Cumberland to notify outlying points and added that in the future the signals will be spaced to about ten or fifteen minutes instead of five minutes.

Richard "Dick" Boyle and Myers, assistant air raid wardens, took over during the blackout in the absence of Dr. Robert W. Work, civilian defense director, who is out of the city.

Whistles Blow Often
The whistles and sirens during last night's surprise test were sounded so closely that several persons called the Cumberland News office and asked, "Why are the whistles blowing so often?"

It was one occasion on which many persons were heard to remark, "Maybe it's a real air raid."

Observance of the surprise blackout in the downtown section was good except in a few cases.

A restaurant on South Mechanic street was not open for business and the "burglar light" in the rear of the place cast a pale glow throughout the test.

Several men who are not regular air raid wardens aided in having sign lights extinguished and in warning motorists to pull over to the curb and to cut their lights when the red, or danger warning, was sounded by a series of short or wavering blasts on the sirens.

Delays Workers
Most workers on their way to the Kelly plant for the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift were able to be on time as buses and passenger cars were able to operate for a time during the blue, or warning phase of the blackout test. Employees of the Celanese plant have farther to go and some workers were late.

The neighboring town of Ridgely, W. Va., blacked out along with other Allegany county towns.

Judge Sloan

questioned by the court. He admitted their were slot machines operated in the place "until recently." He also said members are charged $1.25 a year and there are 225 members. Judge Sloan commented that it will be "tough sledding" with this limited income and only revenue from beer sales to make ends meet legitimately and he warned Boyd against violations and gambling.

Guest Cards Ruled Out
In issuing the license he cautioned that the sheriff and enforcement officers have a right to enter and inspect the premises of this and all other clubs. The court said the officers have the legal right to "knock the door down," if necessary, to gain admittance. Judge Sloan also said that guest cards to clubs cannot be issued and patrons must be paid members in good standing.

Renewal of the license for the Red Men was also granted, but the court issued a strong admonition against violating any phase of the liquor law. Chief of Police Joseph Wilkes told the court that club complaints against the Westport club were numerous. Deputy sheriffs raided the place several weeks ago and removed a number of slot machines.

Harry T. Greenway was granted a renewed license. There was only a single complaint against his establishment and this was made by a man who charged him with selling to his wife and other members of his family beyond their capacity to imbibe.

Commenting upon a blaze on Piney mountain Sunday, which was attributed to members of local Boy Scout Troop No. 13, Wigfield said costs in the neighborhood of $75 will be charged against the troop or the local scout council. Investigation disclosed that the scouts had camped in the area over night and had left seven camp fires only partly extinguished. The adult leader of the camping expedition left the boys early Sunday morning, several hours before the boys broke camp to return to Cumberland.

Wigfield said that permits and advice from forest wardens should be obtained before clearing land burning brush etc. Costs will be assessed those responsible for damage to the states forests and woodlands. Chest Drive Is Everybody's Job, H. B. Davis Says

Stresses Responsibility of Individual in Talk on Behalf of Railroaders

On behalf of Harry A. Porch, general chairman, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers of the B. and O. system, Howard B. Davis spoke last night at the launching of the Community Chest campaign on the responsibility of the individual citizen for the success of the 1943 drive.

"The success of the present Community Chest drive is a problem that is everybody's job," Davis said. "Many people are asking why, with the present high employment ratios, it is necessary to continue the Community Chest. There are many reasons why it is even more necessary now than it has been heretofore. The basic results of the drafting of men into the armed forces will be a financial depression for about three million families, or about one tenth of our population. This will be true even though government allowances and allotments to families are somewhat increased, because these allotments will not bring the family income anywhere near the civilian earnings."

Increased demands for day nurseries, for recreation programs and for means of combating constantly increasing juvenile delinquency, for care for crippled children and for general relief were submitted by Davis as problems that cannot be overlooked.

"We of the working class cannot look at the question of contributing to the many agencies of this character as a sacrifice," he said, "but we must see them as an obligation. It is the working class that derives the benefits. Who are we that we can sit idle and permit undue, unnecessary suffering inflicted on the unfortunate few when we have it within our power and privilege to prevent such privations?"

Davis concluded with an appeal to the working people to subscribe as liberally as they can, in order that the people of the community may have a feeling of security.

"Today we are enjoying life, free from certain worries and privations," he said, "but who can tell what tomorrow holds for him?"

mendous back load of unfilled orders for materials, the manufacture of which was stopped for the duration, and of the private building program which may help to carry the country through the transition from manufacturing for war and manufacturing for peace.

"Too many people are thinking that the future will take care of itself, whereas the future is only what you make it," he emphasized, adding that it is being shaped by action taken right now.

We must also consider the tragic side, he continued, the war casualties; the families bereft of breadwinners for whom the government must provide; the wounded and the maimed whose rehabilitation will also be the responsibility of the government.

Chest Like Man's Arm
As a rebuttal to the argument that may be offered by citizens that the Community Chest seems to be a useless thing and not necessary at this time, Senator Tydings compared the Chest with the muscles of a man's arm. The muscles, he said, must continue to be exercised or they can't be used when they are needed, because they will not be strong enough to lift the load. The Community Chest must likewise be kept exercised, if it is to be strong enough to bear the post-war load that will fall on Cumberland as well as on all the other communities in the country.

A man does not buy insurance when his house is on fire he illustrated, and the Community Chest will be the best insurance policy Cumberland can have in the dark period which will beset the community when the war is over. No mistake will be made in making the campaign a success he added, and if the war continues, to do the same next year, and if possible, to over-subscribe both years.

Senator Tydings compared the present era of prosperity with the era of pseudo-prosperity in the 1937-38 period which, in an atmosphere of economic sufficiency, people were not prepared for the aftermath in the depression years after 1932. "We should profit by those experiences in the depression period," he warned, "by anticipating those things which are certain, by keeping such agencies as the Community Chest flourishing and in the best of health."

Makes Prediction
"I make the prediction," he concluded, "that if you keep the Community Chest alive, keep the chest fully stocked, the volume of the fund to a reasonable height, and the organization a going concern you will remember on May 3 that I said you would find yourself serving not only your community but your friends, your neighbors and yourself in the best way humanly possible to anticipate and safeguard for the hazards and difficulties of the future. While we hope for the victory of the big war, let us get ready for the post-war to come."

Senator Tydings, whose speech was broadcast over Station WTHO was introduced by Attorney General William C. Walsh. Roy C. Lottig, general campaign chairman, presided, and short talks were given by Joseph K. Trenton, associate classified chairman; Everett R. Johnson, chairman classified secretary, and E. M. Brown, campaign director. The Rev. Edwin W. Sawyer gave the invocation and music was provided by the Duke Memorial Bible Class orchestra. Two hundred and fifty Chest workers attended.

of those ordered to report and later against those accepted that the public is able to know how far generally the order numbers have been followed.

3. We feel that if a registrant does not follow his order number or if a number be omitted from its actual order, the public should be advised by a statement of the board, published in the local press, why that registrant did not follow his regular order. If he was deferred, upon what grounds and at whose request. If this policy is not followed, why couldn't a Local board indiscriminately omit or drop any number or any number or numbers?

Loss of Jobs Cited
4. We very strongly believe that no deferment should be granted a registrant without his consent and certainly not against the will of the registrant. It has been stated here that registrants have been threatened with the loss of their established seniority rights and even with the loss of their jobs if they voluntarily offer their lives to the service of their country against the wishes of their employers. This practice to us seems highly un-American.

5. We feel that whenever an appeal from the action of the Local board is taken, the public should be advised by statements of the boards published in the local press of the name or names of the person taking the appeals, the grounds upon which the appeal is based and the finding of the appeal board after the appeal has been heard; and we think that right now a statement should be issued giving the public the above information regarding all appeals heretofore taken.

6. We think that inasmuch as the registrants and the employers are the only persons presenting evidence before the Local boards or before the appeals board, that public hearings be held on all deferments and that disinterested evidence be presented prior to the granting of any deferment. This can easily be obtained either through fellow workmen, neighbors, or union officers and committees.

Want List Published
Signers of the communication ask that the above recommendations be carefully considered and if possible, be followed in the future, as they feel that if they are, there will be far greater confidence in the action of the local boards and far less criticism of them.

"We believe that it would also be advantageous if the boards would release to the press a complete list of all men deferred for occupational reasons, upon what grounds, and at whose request, prior hereto."

In conclusion, the letter calls attention to the fact that the United States Employment Service states that there are almost fifteen hundred men registered with it in Allegany county. "This indicates that there are probably two or three times that many unemployed men in the county. With this great number unemployed, we believe that a large number of those people already deferred can be easily and quickly replaced and that further deferments can be considerably lessened."

Representatives of the organizations endorsing the recommendations are:

All Graduates Of College Now In Armed Forces

NEW WINDSOR, Md., May 3 (AP)—Every man in the graduating class of Blue Ridge College left school to join the armed forces, so only the co-eds of the class were on hand for yesterday's graduation exercises.

The graduating date was advanced from June 6 by cutting holidays short and increasing lecture hours.

The seven women who received diplomas were:

Barbara Yerberry, Baltimore; Celeste Hawkins, Gaithersburg; Eileen Theresa O'Neill, Brooklyn, N. Y.; all completing a four-year course; Patricia Anne Chesterman, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Jean Pierce Johnston, Pa.; Mary Alice Watson, New Rochelle, N. Y.; and Mary Louise Welton, Pelham Manor, N. Y., all completing a two-year course.

The college began last fall to train its students for war service. Mathematics courses were changed to meet army and navy requirements; special work in physics was introduced and a physical education program set up. To meet the needs of students being called to war service a modified quarter system was adopted.

Secretary of Navy Knox recently commended the institution's accelerated program. Under the college plan, students may finish the regular four-year course in three years of regular school work, and take jobs on farms or in war industries during the summer.

The Third Service Command praised the college's work for the enlisted reserve corps as "a job well done." In the last few months, eighty men students joined the army, navy, marine corps or coast guard. Of the Blue Ridge college men in service, four have been decorated once and one four times.

Dean Miles S. Reifsnider read the war roll at graduation exercises, and Dr. Anthony C. Westerhof, professor of psychology, on war leave, addressed the graduates. Arthur E. Hungerford, chairman of the executive committee, presented the diplomas.

Fainting Was "Genteel" Century Ago But Women Apparently Tougher Now

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A spell of fainting would be regarded a good deal more seriously now than it would have been a century ago—at least if we can trust the novels of Sir Walter Scott and other fictionists. In those days ladies fainted when anybody made an indecent—or a decent—proposal to them, when they had bad news from the front, when they were laced too tightly or when a gentleman used a "big, big D" in their presence. The ladies are tougher now.

Brain's Lack of Blood

Still, fainting seldom indicates any very serious disease. In every case it is due, I believe, to a withdrawal of circulation from the brain. The blood vessels of the brain are constantly changing their caliber and under nervous stress they may go into spasm so that no blood is able to circulate through them and reach the brain structure. Thus any emotion in a susceptible subject can produce a brain without blood. It takes a somewhat severe emotion to produce it in a modern, unlike Sir Walter's young ladies.

Fear is an emotion strong enough to cause fainting; pain, any unusual exertion, or fatigue will deprive the brain of blood.

During the time when I was a life insurance examiner, I had two experiences which have confirmed my belief that fainting is due to withdrawal of blood from the brain.

The first occurred when I was examining a healthy young applicant who was standing at my side while I counted his pulse. My fingers were on his wrist and my eyes were on the watch, so I could not see his face. I had counted about a half a minute when the pulse suddenly stopped. It had been a large, rapid, bounding pulse. The transition was so sudden that I thought the artery had rolled from under my finger. But just then I felt a tug from the young man's arm and I looked up just in time to see that he was dead pale, and had to put him down on the floor where he quickly revived.

Another Experience

The second experience was similar, except that I was taking the blood pressure. Again the subject was a perfectly healthy, robust man. He was seated at the side of the table with blood pressure cuff in place. Again my eyes were occupied by looking at the blood pressure apparatus, so I did not see the condition of the applicant. What I did notice, however, was that the systolic blood pressure could not be found. The mercury column went down and down, almost to zero, when my observations were interrupted by the patient toppling over on the desk. Again, he revived promptly.

Here we have two natural experiments, showing in the one case that the pulse entirely stops at the moment of fainting and in the second case that the blood pressure fails to a level so low that it means no blood can be pumped to the brain.

Some Serious Cases

Although ninety-nine per cent of cases in people under 30 are not serious, there are a few conditions which cause fainting and are serious. One of these is a form of heart trouble called heart block in which the heart becomes very slow—so slow that there are moments when there is no blood in the brain, so fainting results. Hardening of the arteries in the brain will also lead to fainting attacks.

Onlookers and worried relatives observing a person who has fainted should remember that a very frequently at the end of a faint there is a slight, generalized convulsion; also that it is a regular thing for breathing to stop entirely during a period of fainting.

Questions and Answers

B. O.—Is spastic paralysis hereditary? Does it result from any sort of infection the doctor gives a woman during childbirth pains? If not, what causes spastic paralysis?

Answer: Spastic paralysis is not due to anything that the doctor does to the mother. It is probably due to a hemorrhage in the brain which occurs during childbirth, but has never been known to be the doctor's fault.

A. B.—A certain boy and I have been contemplating marriage but have hesitated due to the fact that in tracing our ancestry we find that his father and my grandfather were cousins. Do you think that this factor will have too much bearing on our offspring?

Answer: No, you have mentioned a fear which comes up all the time in different cases. But, as a matter of fact, the offspring of even first cousins are usually very brilliant and vigorous.

How to Make Cooking Fats Do Double Duty!

OF COURSE YOU CAN! There's no conflict between rationing and saving your used cooking grease to make gunpowder for our men at the front. And the reasons are very simple. First, the government doesn't ask for your fats until you've got all the cooking good out of them. And, second, even if you consume a lot of them in using them over, what you have left is vitally important. No housewife need think she has too little to turn in! Because just one simple tablespoon of used fat will make five machine gun bullets. Save every precious drop. Keep it in a can. When full, rush it to your meat dealer.

Coal Labor Truce Bolsters Stocks In Fastest Session in Many Days

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Buying power returned to the stock market today, in the wake of the coal labor truce, and a wide assortment of favorites pushed up fractions to more than a point, many to peaks for 1 to 3 years.

It was the fastest session in nearly a month as low-priced performers turned over in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares. Steels and stocks of other companies which would have been hit by fuel shortage were in front throughout.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up 6 of a point at 50.2, a new top since April 25, 1940. It was the largest daily expansion for this barometer since March 29. The market also was one of the broadest for the year to date, 952 individual issues being traded. Of these 630 were up, 142 down and 180 unchanged. Transfers of 2,349,090 shares compared with 1,358,890 last Friday and were the best since April 9.

Aiding the oils was the declaration by Standard (N.J.) of the usual 50-cent extra dividend.

In the "new high" category were such stocks as American Telephone, American Water Works, International Telephone, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Standard Oil (N.J.), Radio Corp., R-K-O, Allegheny Corp., Budd Manufacturing, Pepsi-Cola, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, United Aircraft, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber, Graham-Paige, Willys-Overland and General Motors.

Prominent gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Kennecott, Western Union, Westinghouse, American Can, General Electric and U. S. Gypsum.

The aggregate here was 564,185 shares versus 326,375 in the previous full session.

Bond market prices were on the mend in most departments with rails and selected utilities at the head of the advancing forces.

With the close of the second war loan drive and the lifting of restraints upon institutional and other investment managers, heavy buying in some of the higher priced bonds in all groups was an outstanding feature. American Telephone 3s, due in 1956, rose 1 1/2 points to a new high at 114 1/2.

Trading in listed government loans was almost negligible and price changes minor.

Sales of $16,923,400 compared with $21,251,200 last Friday.

Duke's Baseball Coach Nominated For Hall of Fame

John Coombs Won Five Games and Lost None in Three Series

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—A well dressed young man from St. Louis was riding a train en route to New York recently, sharing his seat with a young lady from Cleveland.

The gentleman soon discovered the young lady was an ardent baseball fan and a great admirer of Duke Sewell, manager of the St. Louis Browns.

"Cleveland sent him to St. Louis for experience," she confided to her fellow passenger. "So that he could learn to manage a club and then come back and boss the Indians. Big clubs often send fellows to tank towns like St. Louis for training like that."

The gentleman listened carefully, thanked her for her information and handed her his card. It read:

P. S.—The gal swallowed her gum.

The New York Yankees won five of their first six games although they left fifty-eight base runners stranded. You can blame it on the balata ball, the absence of guys like DiMaggio, Henrich and Hasset or improved pitching for the opposition. If that keeps up they'll start calling them the Maroons—and not in honor of the University of Chicago either.

Headline before the weekend New York Giants-Dodgers series: "Ott calls mound regulars." After losing seven of their first ten games there's little doubt what Ott called them.

Sgt. Barney Ross, of the Marines, tells this one:

He and another marine were carrying a wounded buddy back to a first aid station last fall when the marine carrying the North half of the stretcher asked what Ross thought of a scheduled boxing match "so that I can bet my pay the other way and clean up."

Just then the guy on the stretcher raised himself despite his pain and cracked:

"You know, if I get sent back home right away I'll probably get to see the end of the football season. And Notre Dame is going to murder them."

Bill Schuehardt, sports editor of the Duke Chronicle, nominates John Coombs, now the Duke coach, for the baseball Hall of Fame, pointed out that Coombs won five games against no defeats in three World Series, beat the Giants eleven straight times while pitching for the Dodgers in 1915, 1916 and 1917.

And went the route in winning a twenty-four-inning game in 1906, 4 to 1.

His contributions to the majors in his fifteen years at Duke include Bill Werber, Chubby Dean, Hal Wagner, Crash Davis, Eric Tipton and Eddie Shokes.

Johnny Murphy, New York Yankee relief artist, already has won two games this season without any help from Lefty Gomez. Gomez, if you'll remember, always pitched the first six or seven innings for Murphy.

Incidentally, followers of the Boston Braves say Lefty will be worth his 1943 salary to his new club even if he doesn't pitch a single victory because he is riding the club of its defeatist attitude.

And what odds do we get that Connie Ryan, the youngster who hit that game winning, ninth inning home run against the New York Giants right after being traded to the Braves, doesn't get another round tripper all season?

Crossetti, Suspension Nearing End, Joins Yankee Teammates

N.W. YORK, May 3 (AP)—Infielder Frank Crossetti joined the New York Yankees today to begin training for play when his suspension ends May 21.

The little veteran was five pounds overweight, but said he had been working in a shipyard at Stockton, Calif., and was in fair shape. He had had a few workouts with sandlot teams at his home.

Crossetti was suspended by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis for the first month of the season as the result of pushing an umpire in last year's World Series.

Morton Cooper's Arm Injury Isn't Believed Serious

X-Ray Shows No Bone Fragments--Manager Southworth Relieved

ST. LOUIS, May 3 (AP)—That loud noise, brother, wasn't the moon whistle—just Manager Billy Southworth's sigh on hearing Mort Cooper wasn't flinching with immediate surgery.

Dr. Robert P. Hyland announced X-ray photographs showed no bone fragments in the elbow of the St. Louis Cardinal ace's pitching arm, which developed severe pain in the sixth inning of a doubleheader opener against the Cincinnati Reds Sunday.

Fragments from the Olecranon process, just to be scientific about it, sent Cooper to the operating table and the Cards to second place in 1941.

When Cooper asked to be relieved Sunday, Southworth figured it could happen here—again.

His state of mind was in no wise improved by the early diagnosis of Trainer Harrison J. Weaver, who said in the clubhouse he thought the symptoms were the "same as they were two years ago."

But Hyland, who diagnosed Sunday's trouble as an upper arm strain, said:

"I don't consider the injury serious. The trouble this time is above the elbow."

The doubt still remains, however, as to Cooper's ability to take his turn in the regular pitching sequence, and fans are crossing more fingers than a hex expert as they wait.

With Johnny Beazley the team's only other twenty-game winner last year, gone to war, loss of Cooper could well be the turning point in the infant National League pennant chase.

It would leave the Cards with only three veteran right-handers—Howard Kist, Harry Gumbert and Murry Dickson—none of whom can be expected even to come close to winning twenty games, and a rookie, George Munger.

His contributions to the majors in his fifteen years at Duke include Bill Werber, Chubby Dean, Hal Wagner, Crash Davis, Eric Tipton and Eddie Shokes.

Johnny Murphy, New York Yankee relief artist, already has won two games this season without any help from Lefty Gomez. Gomez, if you'll remember, always pitched the first six or seven innings for Murphy.

Dodgers Defeat Phillies, 5 to 3; Higbe Is Winner

Brooklyn Raps Dozen Hits Off Rookie Al Gerheuser and Rowe

BROOKLYN, May 3 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to pick up the Philadelphia Phillies today, rapping a dozen hits off Rookie Al Gerheuser and Veteran Schoolboy Rowe to win 5 to 3 in one of the two games played in the major leagues.

Kirby Higbe made his second start of the season and pitched seven-hit ball.

In the second inning he was touched for three safeties and two runs, but gave no hits in any other inning till the eighth, by which time Brooklyn had the victory in the bag.

The Phillies' run in the second came as Jim Wasdell beat out a bunt, and with two out, Babe Dahlgren and Tommy Livingston hit successive doubles. Their other tally came in the ninth when Merrill May opened with a double and Dahlgren singled him home. However, Higbe fanned the next two batters and made the third lay down an easy grounder.

Gerheuser was the victim of all the Dodgers' run-making as Dolph Camilli and Alex Kampouris led a concentrated assault.

In the second stanza Camilli doubled for the first of his three hits and after two were out Kampouris also doubled. He was thrown out, though, trying to stretch it to a triple.

In the third Higbe opened with a single and was forced by Augie Galan, who took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Dixie Walker. Billy Herman walked and Camilli singled Walker across.

When De Moore led off with a double and Kampouris followed with a triple in the fourth Rowe replaced Gerheuser, but Kampouris scored on a fly by Vaughn. The box:

Allegany Defeats Romney, 12 to 8; Fort Hill To Oppose LaSalle Today

Russell Bucy, Making First Start on Mound, Tops Pitchers--Campers Play Paw Paw

The Allegany High Campers, who pounded out a 12-8 victory over the Romney High Pioneers yesterday afternoon at Romney, W. Va., will try to ring up their second triumph in as many days when they tangle with the Paw Paw (W. Va.) High Mountaineers in a Tri-State Inter-scholastic Baseball Conference tussle this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Paw Paw.

The feature game on today's conference program, however, will be the intra city opener between LaSalle High's Explorers, who share the third slot with Allegany, and the Fort Hill High Sentinels, who are tied with Beall high, of Frostburg, for first place.

The clash, scheduled to start at 4 o'clock on the Fort Hill diamond, will find Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's Sentinels opening defense of the city championship. Brother Justin, LaSalle coach, said last night that George Geatz will get the pitching assignment with Ray Schmutz doing the receiving.

Fort Hill has shown better balance than LaSalle and will be a slight favorite. Allegany appears to be too strong for Paw Paw, having downed the West Virginians 13-1 last week.

Beall Meets Hyndman
In the other conference game, Beall needs only to continue the form it showed against LaSalle and Allegany to dispose of Hyndman, Pa. The Pennsylvania and Paw Paw seek to enter the win column for the first time this season.

In yesterday's game at Romney, Allegany scored in every inning except the second and sixth to rack up its third victory in four starts this season.

Russell Bucy, making his first attempt on the mound, went the route for the Campers but was pounded for thirteen hits. Allen Swick, Romney hurler, gave up nine blows, including a homer in the seventh by Reynolds.

Bobby Williams, Allegany's hard-hitting shortstop, continued to set a torrid pace, getting two for three in addition, he stole five bases. Will

Dr. Myers Says Many Flower Plots Could Be Used for Vegetables

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

For a number of years many public schools have developed school gardens. Before Pearl Harbor, the chief purpose was to educate the child in responsibility. Right now it is to produce more food, but the consequent gains in responsibility should, obviously, be larger than ever.

Please boost school gardens as never before. Help your child want to do his best in the school garden. Go to see his garden plot at school. Enjoy with him its growth. Should it need his care on Saturdays see that he is there then. When summer vacation comes, require him, if necessary, to continue its cultivation, care and harvesting faithfully.

Home Gardening by Child

In addition to the care of a school garden, most children over eight or ten could profitably spend some time gardening at home. Many flower plots could be turned to growing vegetables now. Small or large plots which have never cultivated might be turned to garden space.

The plot or plots need not be large. You can grow in a few square feet some lettuce, beans, a few tomato plants and the like. Lettuce take so little space, grows fast and if some seed is planted every few weeks, an abundance of fresh lettuce may be had till frost comes, if you don't bother about head-lettuce which is not so rich in vitamins as the straight or curly green leaves.

Turnips

Turnips are easily grown almost anywhere. Plant the seed as early as possible, especially for the greens. As you may know, practically no other vegetable contains all in one so many of the essential minerals and vitamins as the tops of turnips. In the northern states we need to get acquainted with turnip greens. Rarely do we find it on a menu at a restaurant or hotel above the Mason and Dixon line. How deliciously and often it is served in the Southland! Grow a bit of parsley so rich in vitamins, too. A row of a few feet will supply the family and it grows well in a partly shaded place.

Train Child To Garden at Home

In the family where children grow up to share in doing things at home with their parents, it may be easy to induce the child over five or six to enjoy gardening. Right now some children can be motivated to garden faithfully as a patriotic duty. However, the average child, if he is to do his share in the garden at home, will have to learn that it must be done just as scrubbing floors, peeling potatoes or practicing his music lessons. Wise parents find ways other than by a wagging tongue to require him to do such things. In my special bulletin on teaching the child to help at home

I suggest effective ways to accomplish this.

If, for instance, your child of ten neglects his garden, make it clear what work he must do and when. Then let him choose between this obligation and such a sure penalty as sitting alone doing nothing for exactly two hours where you can see him. Proceed in like manner with his mowing the lawn, if he is over twelve or thirteen, assuming he has a fit mower and the space is not unreasonably large. Require such responsibility chiefly for the character education of your child.

Solving Parent Problems

Q Don't you think some children have failed to read their text books carefully, above the fourth grade, say, because they suppose they should race through it and are ashamed to read very slowly and reflectively.

A I certainly do. Except for reading fiction for plot and the like, your child and mine had better be urged to read slowly and carefully rather than hastily and skimmingly.

Familiar Scenes

Corporal Horton Smith, golfer famed Joplin Ghost, is at an air forces officers candidate school at Miami Beach, not far from courses over which he scored notable triumphs. In 1929 he won the La Gorce $5,000 open; in 1933 he and Paul Runyan won the International four-ball, and in 1935 he won first money of $2,500 at the Miami-Biltmore open.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A VALUABLE SINGLETON

MOST PLAYERS are prone to undervalue the possession of a king when it is not guarded with another card of its same suit. A majority count it as only worth a half a chance to take a trick, even when guarded. But the honor just below the ace will produce many more tricks than that for your side, in the long run. Think of what it does to a guarded queen in your partner's hand, or how mighty it is as a trick-taker when your partner has the ace and at least one other card. Still another use is its ability to make a particular opponent take it when you are building an end-play, or its effect in making certain squeeze plays work.

That singleton club in South's hand proved a vital factor in the making of the contract, even though it did not take a trick. Its sole value was in keeping West from gaining the lead when the crucial trick arrived, compelling East to take it.

East feared that a lead from any of his side suits might build up a trick for the declarer—a sound logic—so opened his spade 3 as

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved husband, Ellis Schwartzwelder, who departed this life one year ago today, May 4, 1942.

I did not think that I could let you go. But I have taught my lips to wear a smile. And all my fears away. Where now may see, Now I must put these thoughts of you safely in some lacquered box of time. I place them there and gently, "Take the key,"

These things that mean so very much to me.

MRS. THELMA SCHWARTZWELDER, 5-4-11-N

LIGHT—In loving memory of George W. Light.

Oh father, brother, neighbor and friend. We know this earthly life must end. And only pass on here to prepare. For Heavenly mansions wait up there.

He needs no trials and tribulation. For every man in every station. The rich the poor, the deaf, the blind. According to his strength, to all mankind.

Some have only short lives to live. Others nearly a century to give. To prepare our soul to help another. Neighbor, son, daughter or brother.

On borrowed time, you did this. With much hard work. His wish fulfilled. That you would spend your work and don't. Oh faithful servant, your victory is won. Give the key.

13 Organizations Here Recommend Certain Changes In Draft Law

Labor, Service Groups Present Proposals to Col. H. C. Stanwood, Selective Service Director

Thirteen service and labor organizations of Allegany county have gone on record as recommending certain changes in the Selective Service act and regulations promulgated thereunder in a letter forwarded yesterday to Col. Henry C. Stanwood, director of Selective Service for the State of Maryland.

Copies of the communication bearing the signatures of the heads of the thirteen organizations have been sent to eleven persons holding national and state offices requesting them to use their influence to bring about the changes recommended, which they believe, "will result in greater confidence by the public in the administration of the act."

Those receiving copies include: Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, Washington, D. C.; Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, United States Senators Millard E. Tydings and George L. Radcliffe; Rep. J. Glenn Beall; Attorney General William C. Walsh; J. Millard Tawes, state comptroller; Col. Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion; Robert T. Merrill, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Daniel P. McMullen, Maryland department commander of the American Legion and Robert Fanning, Maryland Department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Deferments Criticized

In the letter to Col. Stanwood, the organizations point out that there has been a great deal of criticism in this community regarding the deferments being granted registrants under the Selective Service act.

"Heretofore," the communication continues, "certain complaints have been forwarded both to you and the four Selective Service Boards of Allegany county, but we now think that some changes in the policies of the local boards or in the rulings of your office are needed." Recommendations cited include:

1. We believe that the policies of the four local boards and their interpretations of the act and the rulings made thereunder should be absolutely uniform.

2. We believe that the publication of the names of men ordered to report to Baltimore for examination should be continued. The registrant's numbers under the act are drawn by lot, and this number and his order numbers publicly posted, and it is only through this posted list, checked against the public list.

Judge Sloan Repeats Warning About Violations

Says Officers Can Break Down Doors To Control Liquor, Gambling

Yesterday morning in circuit court during hearings on several applications for liquor licenses, Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan repeated his warnings of last week, against violation of liquor laws and operation of gambling devices in clubs. The judge was explicit about violations and said no liquor or beer can be sold on Sunday or after midnight on week-days. He was equally explicit about gambling devices when he referred to slot machines.

Judge Sloan's comments were repeated for the benefit of the North End Social Club on North Mechanic street and for the Blackhawk Tribe No. 131, Improved Order of Red Men at Westernport. These two applications along with that of Harry T. Greenway, operator of a tavern at 9 Front street had been held up for thorough hearings before the court.

Only Wants Protection

Halvin C. Edwards, colored, who has lived for the last fifty-two years in a house separated by only six feet from the side of the North End Social Club, told the court he did not wish to see the club's license application rejected, but requested protection for his property. He complained of noise and rowdiness at the club and said bottles and other things are thrown into his yard by frequenters of the club. On occasions sections of his fence have been destroyed by the club's patrons he told the court.

200 Construction Workers on Oil Line Coming Here

Between Fifty and Seventy-five Furnished Apartments Are Sought

Approximately 200 persons employed by the Oakland Contracting Company on the construction of the "big inch" oil pipe line to the East, will arrive in Cumberland in the next two weeks, Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said yesterday.

Van Smith, representative of the contracting firm which has its headquarters in Dallas, Tex., was in Cumberland yesterday seeking assistance from the chamber of commerce in securing between fifty and seventy-five furnished apartments for the workers, a warehouse, parking lot and office quarters.

The contracting representative came here from Chambersburg where the workmen are now quartered and before he returned secured offices in the Liberty Trust building.

The pipe line construction will be about eighteen miles north of Cumberland—between Cumberland and Bedford—and will be to the east.

Length of time the workers will remain in Cumberland is indefinite, the chamber secretary said, but will be approximately three months.

Anyone who has rooming space available should write the chamber of commerce, the secretary said, describing the size and furnishings.

Court Paroles Elderly Invalid In Shooting Case

Winfield Scott Sarver, 67, Enters Plea of Guilty to Manslaughter

Winfield Scott Sarver, 67, entered a plea of guilty to manslaughter and not guilty of murder in circuit court here yesterday and was paroled for three years.

Sarver, a wheel chair invalid since an automobile accident which injured his spinal cord July 4, 1930, had been indicted by the April grand jury for the fatal shooting of his son-in-law, Thomas D. Burley, 34-year-old Celanese worker. The shooting occurred March 6, of this year at their home, 202 Laing avenue.

Defended by F. Brooke Whiting, attorney, the case was tried before the court and only two witnesses besides Sarver testified. The prosecution, represented by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris outlined the case to the court and said that Sarver had always enjoyed an excellent reputation and had no previous record of violence. Harris said investigation had convinced authorities that Burley was also a fine man when he was sober, but when he was drinking, he was mean, ill-tempered and inconsiderate. Harris said it had been determined too, that Burley threatened Sarver.

Burley Struck Sarver

From his wheel chair, Sarver told the court about the shooting. He explained that his daughter, wife of Burley, had come to him a short time before and asked if they could move into his house and live with him. Mrs. Burley was not well and their living quarters were not the best. Sarver said he had agreed that his daughter and Burley could come to live with him. However, he said, Burley drank on occasions and was "very hard to live with." Sarver said that on one occasion prior to the shooting Burley had struck him during a drunken rage.

On the day of the fatal shooting, Sarver explained, he told his daughter to keep Burley out of the house because he was drunk. Burley called him a vile name and had started toward Sarver with his fists raised, when Sarver shot him.

The elderly man told the court that he had armed himself with the pistol from a dining room cupboard, when he heard Burley swearing and creating a disturbance in the kitchen. He put the pistol in his pocket, he said, as he wheeled himself to the kitchen and after an exchange of words, shot Burley when the younger man approached him.

Obsolete Law

Under the law it is explained, the city, as do all other incorporated municipalities in Allegany county, must use for tax purposes, valuations placed on property by state and county assessors. These valuations are recorded in the county court house and the city uses the same valuation as are used by the state and county in assessing city taxes. So, for many years, interested people and public officials have wondered as to the value of the local Board of Equalization and Review, except as a place to air complaints.

City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett said last evening that the council is required to sit as a Board of Equalization and Review under an obsolete law. He said no one ever appeared before the board and the board could do nothing for them if they did, because the council does not control assessments.

May Discuss Budget

So the council members yesterday said they might spend the time talking about the budget.

The new budget and levy must be signed and approved on or before May 25, according to law. Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor said the levy is not completed and all departments have not submitted their estimates.

John E. Powers Charged Costs Of Forest Fire

Valley Street Man Must Pay $83.95 for Starting Blaze

It is proving an expensive victory garden for John E. Powers of 216 Valley street, forestry officials said last night, when they revealed that Powers has been charged $83.95 for payment of costs of a forest fire started when the man was clearing land preparatory to planting.

On March 30, about 150 acres of woodland was burned over at the foot of Wills mountain, when Powers lost control of brush fires he started while clearing lots for gardening.

Forest Warden Urner G. Wigfield said last night that Powers had visited the forestry office in the court house for instructions and advice about regulations on brush burning and had been told how to proceed and what precautions should be taken. Powers ignored a part of the instructions and the huge fire resulted. Powers then reported the fire to the foresters here and assisted in fighting it.

Wigfield explained that under state laws, costs on an acreage basis can be charged against a person who starts a forest fire. Costs of reforestation and costs of suppression can be added. In this case, Powers, because he co-operated with authorities and reported the blaze, was (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2)

650 Chicks Burned In Fire Which Razes Brooder and Hen House

An early morning fire yesterday destroyed a large brooder and hen house along with 650 chicks on the farm of W. C. Collins, Christie road, three miles from this city. The blaze, of undetermined origin, started about 1:30 a. m. Damage is estimated at $350, partially covered by insurance.

Volunteer fire companies from Baltimore Pike, Bowman's Addition and Corrigville answered calls for help and prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings. A steady rain aided in checking the blaze. The city firemen were unable to respond, but relayed the call to volunteer companies. The Corrigville firemen made a nine-mile run to the farm.

Community Chest Has Never Been Needed More, Tydings Says

Factors To Be Considered in Post-War Picture Are Discussed by Senator at Dinner Meeting

Stressing the importance of planning for the "post-war" which is inevitable after an armistice in the present conflict is reached, Sen. Millard F. Tydings pointed out in an address last night at Central Y. M. C. A., when the 1943 Community Chest campaign was launched, that there has been no year when the need for the Community Chest has been more imperative than the present year.

"We are in the middle of a very tragic war," the senator said, "which is far from over . . . which for the United States is just beginning. Some day this war will be over . . . when, we cannot say, but it will end with startling suddenness just as it did twenty-five years ago. Let us look ahead; let us look at the problems that are inherent in war and see if a Community Chest is needed."

"When the War is over approximately nine million service men will be discharged and returned to home communities thus forming a potential army of nine million unemployed," Senator Tydings continued. "In addition to these there will be about twenty million war plant workers who will face temporary unemployment upon the signing of an armistice and the closing of war industries."

Enormous Debt Faces U. S.

"The nation will be faced in the post-war period with the enormous national debt incurred in the most costly war in wealth in the history of the world. It has been estimated in Washington that the national debt will be 350 billion dollars, which is about $7,500 for every family in America," he pointed out. "Widespread taxes will be the order of the day, and with a debt of almost twice the assessed value of all the property in the United States today, the government will not be as strong in dealing with the future," he added.

Other factors, brought out by Senator Tydings, to be considered in the post-war picture are the large tracts of ground acquired by the government for wartime developments; the sixty billion dollars invested in government-owned hotels, shipyards and plants of all kinds; and the seventy-five billion dollars worth of war contracts which may be cancelled over night upon the conclusion of the war, necessitating a rapid adjustment in order to take care of a portion of the army of unemployed.

Council Adopts Ordinance To Sell Bond Issue

Bids Requested on $150,000 Airport Securities; Work Progresses

Bids will be received May 17, at 10 a. m. on the $150,000 bond issue to finance additional work on the Cumberland airport. It was indicated yesterday when the mayor and city council adopted an ordinance to sell the bonds. Bidders will fix the rate of interest on the issue.

Work at the airport has been resumed under a contract agreement between the city and the Cumberland Contracting Company. The project, a city sponsored WPA job was abandoned by WPA February 1, by presidential order. Until early last week the project had remained idle. During the past week, however, the contracting company workmen have placed stone on a large portion of Runway No. 3 and have graded the entire runway. Other work incidental to the project and covered by the contract is also being done.

City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett, who was appointed by the council to administer the completion of the project and see that it is put into operation said yesterday the port will be opened this summer if all goes well.

Heskett told the council that two planes stopped at the port last week to refuel, but no gasoline or refueling facilities are available. Council immediately instructed Heskett to proceed with his plans for installing tanks and pumps so planes can be accommodated.
